Easy Ways to Obtain NASA Educational Materials

The NASA Office of Education works with NASA experts to promote education as an integral component of NASA research and development missions. These efforts result in innovative and informative educational materials that engage student interest in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics. NASA makes these resources available through the following ways:

- View and download educational resources from NASA's Web site.
<http://www.nasa.gov/education>
- Visit a NASA Educator Resource Center (ERC).
<http://www.nasa.gov/education/ercn>
- Purchase materials from the Central Operation of Resources for Educators (CORE).

NASA's Educator Resource Center Network

NASA's ERCs are located throughout the United States, in the U.S. Virgin Islands, and in Puerto Rico. ERCs offer information about NASA and its educational resources and services. Personnel provide inservice and preservice training using NASA curriculum support materials. ERC team members also collaborate with educational organizations to foster systemic initiatives at local, state, and regional levels. Contact a NASA ERC for services in your area. <http://www.nasa.gov/education/ercn>

Central Operation of Resources for Educators

CORE serves as the worldwide distribution center for NASA-produced educational multimedia materials. For a minimal charge, CORE provides curriculum support materials to educators who are not able to visit one of NASA's ERCs or who are looking for large quantities of materials. Educators can use CORE's online catalog and mail-order service to purchase NASA education materials. Products include activity kits, bulletin boards, CD-ROMS, DVDs, publications, slide programs, and videotapes. Closed-captioned and audio-descriptive versions of many materials are available. <http://www.nasa.gov/education/core>
